

Information – Press Release

Dear customers, suppliers and partners,

Two leading Danish companies within marking and labeling are joining forces

HM Systems A/S – Denmark’s largest company within labelling and marking has acquired Fischer Labelling Machines with effect from the 1st of January 2015.

Fischer Labelling Machines are specialists within labelling, print and software solutions for industrial, medical and food sectors. The merger of HM and Fischer Labelling Machines creates a strong and international supplier of marking solutions with a much stronger service organization.

It is the intention to integrate the two companies under the name HM Systems from the 1st of January 2016 and hereby offer existing and new customers of both companies a wider and better program of products.

Henrik Thomsen, CEO of HM Systems, explains; “The merger of HM Systems and Fischer Labelling Machines brings substantial synergies with an increased customer base, a complete program within marking and a wide focus within food, non-food, logistic and medical industries.”

Bent Fischer, Managing Director of Fischer Labelling Machines, says: “The merger of Fischer Labelling Machines and HM creates a very strong company capable of delivering world-class customer specific solutions, standard products and an extensive range of service solutions.

I am fully convinced that the further development of Fischer Labelling Machines is ensured by this merger and I will continually throughout the transition period be assisting in servicing existing customers and furthermore be contributing to a smooth transition. After this period I will be working for HM Systems focusing on internal development as well as business development.

Henrik Thomsen concludes: “The merged company will have its focus on being an innovative and customer driven player within marking and we are looking forward to continuing and increasing our co-operation with present and new customers.”
